PROSPECTS ARE GOOD FOR WINNING FOOTBALL TEAM FOR THIS SEASON

Bud Saunders, Captain May, and Dope Major

Have a Large Squad of Men Out for Afternoon Workouts—Auburn Game Looms Up Near

With a new coach at the helm and a large bunch of candidates working like Trojans for the team, Clemson's prospects point to a successful year on the gridiron. A stiff schedule has been arranged including games with Centre, Auburn, V. P. I., and Davidson, as well as the state games with Carolina, Furman, P. C., and Newberry. Ten wearers of the Block "C" have returned to try for the team, and a large number of men who were Varsity substitutes, scrubs, or Freshmen last season are available for the vacant positions. Not only will some of these men fill positions for which no letter man is available, but they are also giving fight for places to some of the men who were regulars last year.

Coach "Bud" Saunders, the new Tiger mentor, has been on the ground since the last of August. He has made a hit with everyone at Tigertown and accumulated friends with amazing rapidity. The football boys all swear by him, while all who have watched him handle the team at practice are pleased with his methods, his vim and pepper, and above all his ability to make men get in and fight to the last ditch. Though Coach "Bud" has been here only three weeks, he seems a part of Clemson already. Captain May expressed the sentiments of all when he introduced Saunders for a short talk to the Athletic Association with the words, "Coach 'Bud' Saunders, we all know him, we all love him."

Practice began on September 1 and has been in progress now for over two weeks. During this time much careful drill has been devoted to the rudiments of the game, signal drills have taught the men the plays and formations they will use, and genuine scrimmage has furnished a baptism of fire for the new season. Much time and careful attention has been given to those things which form the ground-work of football—passing, kicking, falling on the ball, tackling, blocking, charging, etc. The coaches realize that no team can be successful until it is master of the fundamentals of the game and they are sparing no efforts to have their charges well-grounded in these basic elements of the game.

Signal drill has brought to light the formation which Clemson will use—a novel shift play based on Notre Dame's "Tent Shift." The men—all except the ends—gather in a circle behind the center as if for a conference. Signals are called and the men jump to the positions called for by the play to be run, whereupon the ball is snapped and play goes through. It looks like a good formation. The enemy has absolutely no indication of the variety or direction of the play until the shift is made, and then scarcely any pause intervenes before the snapping of the ball. Consequently if things run smoothly the opponents should be somewhat bewildered as to what is coming next.

Naturally time is required for the candidates to master an absolutely new shift, so that the formation tends to look a little ragged. But when the Tigers have learned to go through it with speed and precision it should be successful. Scrimmages last week have furnished the test of fire, and everything is going well.

Of the twenty men who received the "C" for their work on the 1922 team, exactly half are now cavorting on Riggs' Field, while the other ten are on the missing list. Captain "Butch" Holahan, Charlie Robinson, Pat Harmon, Gilly Dotterer, Bratton Williams, Charlie Burton, "Stonewall" Jackson, "Red" Wilson, "Dutch" Tennant, and Tom Bailes, these are the letter men who are here. Rhett Turnipseed, the blonde-haired all-State quarter, "Bull" Leightsey, all-Southern tackle, Emmet Emanuel, captain of last year's team, "Bull" Wray and "Brutus" Webb, star ends, "Specks" Harvey, indomitable center, Francis Zeigler, all-round athlete and leader, Jack Reames of baseball fame, Josh Shockley, giant lineman, and Red Williams, all will be sorely missed from the 1923 roster.

Three positions are left without a letter man available, namely center and the two ends. J. B. Wertz who was on the 'varsity squad last year but was not a regular and Fred Leitzey of Columbia High and Clemson Freshmen fame are fighting it out for the pivot position with "Frog" Palmer also of the 1922 "Rat" team also being trained for this berth. Numerous candidates for the wing positions are available. At the present time it looks as though Finklea and Garrison will get the call for the flanks. Finklea is big and rangy, an ideal physique for an end, and works and fights with a zip and determination that make him almost certain to fill one of the ends. Charlie Garrison, as all Clemson men know, is a basketball man and will be captain of the quintet this season. His training in the cage game stands him in good stead for the gridiron game. Other ends who were Freshmen last year are showing up well now are Bowles, Fewell, Wray, and Verdery.

The best bets for tackles seem to be "Stonewall" Jackson, all-State man, who is counted on to be the strongest man in the line, and

GOVERNOR MCLEOD VISITS CLEMSON

The corps of cadets were honored on last Tuesday by an address given by the Chief Executive of South Carolina, the Hon. Thomas G. McLeod. Classes for the first hour were suspended in order that the Governor might be given ample time to deliver his message.

In a speech characterized by its forcefulness and briefness, Gov. McLeod made it clear to all that one of our most important life tasks is in helping and aiding our State. This thought was expanded and developed in such a way that the boys were easily shown that their duty is to their State, and that the State is as much a responsibility on their shoulders as on the shoulders of the ones who are actually in charge of its many operations and functions. He further said that we should advertise our State, that we should be proud that we are South Carolinians, and that we should not let outsiders make statements degrading our public welfare and civic pride.

Finally, he concluded his splendid speech by asking that we all leave college determined to do our best to repay our debt to our State by living and acting as befitting true South Carolinians.

CLEMSON SETS NEW ENROLLMENT RECORD

With a record enrollment of 1,016 students Clemson began her thirty-first session on September 6. This number of cadets sets a new mark for Clemson. Additional new students coming in during the year will probably swell this total to 1050 or more. The college authorities regret that they were forced to turn down about a hundred applicants for entrance to the freshman class on account of limited room in the barracks.

The faculty has been strengthened by a number of additional members and Clemson now boasts one of the strongest teaching forces in the country.

The opening exercises were held in the college chapel Thursday morning, Sept. 6. Dr. Riggs, president of the institution, made an address of welcome to the old students and the new men. In his speech he spoke very highly of the good work done last year both in classes and along disciplinary lines. The discipline last year, he said, was better than it had been in a number of years, and he hoped that there would be a still greater improvement, both in behavior and in academic work. He urged that there be greater co-operation between students and faculty than ever before.

A number of changes and improvements are to be seen on the campus. A new wing has been built on to barracks No. 1, which accommodates about 100 men. The extension on the ground floor of this wing makes an enlargement of the mess hall, which has been needed for quite a while.

Among the cadets themselves the same old "Tiger" spirit, invincible in times past, is to be seen. There seems to be a strengthening of that spirit if anything, and all the cadets are waiting with keen anticipation for the first football game of the season which is now a little less than two weeks away.

Some changes have been made in the curricula of the college for the present session and the authorities feel assured that these changes will improve the quality of the class-work done.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL CANDIDATES SHOW MUCH PROMISE

Prospects For Great Improvement
Over Previous Year

Since coming to Clemson, have any of you fellows ever heard the ghastly yell for a "New Boy?" I have heard it said that such a yell always brings forth results in the form of state famous new boys themselves.

The writer has been all around, and Anderson, up thru Greenville, Spartanburg and the wilds of River Falls, but he is forced to give Prof. Ben Goodale the glass coated bath tub when it comes to getting a whole-hearted response to a call of "New Boy." In fact he is entitled to the cats' piston rings for his success.

When a notice was read calling all Rat football men out for practice you would have thought that the regiment was out for the Freshman team.

Big rats, little rats, white rats, and even a few bald-headed rats were in the merry scrap to get uniforms.

Now that the squad has been clad in mole skins they are down to the grind of rounding into shape. Having been put thru the usual preliminary period of loosening up, the rats are now doing signal work and learning plays.

There are no Flemings on the present Freshman squad but the men who are out there are showing good form on taking an opposing line man out of a play.

The squad as a whole seems to average about 150 or 160 pounds in weight. The whole gang seems eager to learn football and Coach Goodale is giving it to them in rare style.

About seventy men have reported for practice and at present there are several promising teams among that bunch.

Judging from the number of teams in motion each afternoon, a casual observer might mistake the whole works for Mr. Alexander's bunch of yellow Jackets on Grant field.

That rat team must have a large section of pep from the student body. It is a Clemson team, so get behind it men. As time moves forward we are going to see a rat team in action that will eclipse the deeds of its predecessors.

You rats are Clemson men too, and Clemson teams are known to fight, so give us your best, fellows—and a little bit more.

Announcement

Mr. E. G. Parker '24 is now the acting secretary of the Clemson Alumni Association and can be found in the Alumni office at the Y.M.C.A. building. All correspondence to the Alumia secretary will be sent to Mr. Parker at this address.

DANCING CLUBS ARE ORGANIZED

What would Clemson do without its dances? Therefore dancing clubs saves the lives of the St. Vitas followers. Due to a new ruling all cadets who attend the Clemson dances must be members of the dancing clubs. This is a good ruling, because in the past the dancing clubs have meant little and as a club even less. Now the boys must be active members of the clubs if they expect to attend the Clemson dances this session. The first dance of the season will be the Fall Hop, given by the Senior dancing Club on October 6th. This promises to be one of the best dances of the season, a large number have already signed up to attend and a crowd of the fair sex are expected.

The officers of the Senior Dancing Club are: Fayssoux F. S., President; Dotterer, E. G., V. President; and Leach, M. R., Secretary and Treasurer.

Of the Junior Dancing Club: Watkins, E. F., President; Smith, F. V., V. President; and Talbert, E., Sec. and Treas.

Of the Sophomore Dancing Club: Verdery, C. B. President, de Loach, L. D., V. President; Bryan, W. W., Sec. and Tres.—D. C. A.

IN AND AROUND THE "Y"

The Freshman Reception Committee is to be complimented on the way they handled the new men on September 5. "Old boys" were sent to Anderson, Greenville and other points for the purpose of directing all new comers to their destination and to give them such information as was necessary to go through the process of matriculation. It was no easy task to handle such large numbers of new students that were totally unacquainted with the campus, but with very little friction the men were placed in their proper rooms shortly after they arrived.

At the time of this writing a canvass is being made for members of the Bible classes. The greater half of the corps has enrolled. Many membership cards continue to come in. The classes will probably begin their course of study next week on Sunday night. Certain rooms will be designated as the class rooms and there the class will get together every Sunday night from eight to nine o'clock. The interest is greater than any previous year, which seems to indicate that men are becoming more and more interested in those about them.

The membership cards to the Y. M. C. A., that are being printed now can be obtained at the desk next week. This card will be valuable, not only here, but at any branch of the "Y" in the United States. The fee has been paid, so don't worry about having to pay for this card that will admit you to many branches of this organization.

Plans for morning watch have been completed, and it is predicted that these plans will be in operation in several days. A group is going to be on each hall so that no particular room will be overcrowded. These groups will meet for a short time after breakfast everyday except Saturday.

Vesper services are unusually well attended and no wonder; because the singing and the talks are above the average. The services are above the average. The services are held every Sunday evening at 6:45 in the "Y" auditorium for all those who desire to attend and wish to make their time count for the good things of life. The association is doing many things, but it hopes to do bigger and better things this year for the good of Clemson and the men that attend this college.

CALHOUN LITERARY SOCIETY

The Calhoun society started the year off right by having a program on the night of its first meeting, Friday Sept. 14.

The society was called to order by Mr. Wofford, the president, and led in prayer by Mr. Hall.

The president made a speech in which he welcomed the old members back and evidenced his pleasure at seeing a number of new men and visitors present. For the benefit of the newcomers Mr. Wofford sketched the history of the society. He said that the Calhoun was the oldest literary society at Clemson, having been founded only a short while after the opening year of the institution and named for a great South Carolina orator, whose home still sits on the campus, John C. Calhoun. He also mentioned that the editors of the college weekly and of the college monthly publications, with the exception of one, and most of the speakers who have represented Clemson at the state oratorical contest for the past four years, have all been members of the Calhoun Literary Society.

At the conclusion of Mr. Wofford address the program was taken up as follows:

Essayest ..... Mr. Hall
Reader ..... Mr. Shannon
Oration ..... Mr. Moore

The declaimer was absent and the debate was not taken up on account of a church social affair which conflicted with the time of the society meeting.

An appeal for new members was made and a number of names presented. There being no further business the society adjourned for the evening.

COUNT RUMFORD

Born Benjamin Thompson in Massachusetts. Charged with being a Tory, went to England, and became Under-Secretary of the Colonies. Later, in Bavaria reorganized the military department and was made Count Rumford. Returned to England and engaged in scientific research. Founded the Rumford professorship at Harvard.

He watched the pot as it boiled

Thousands of people had watched the boiling pot, but Count Rumford wondered why it boiled. He did more than wonder; by scientific research he found out for himself.

And Rumford laid the foundation of the greatest generalization the human mind has yet conceived—the law of the conservation of energy.

Scientists in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are devoting their lives to pure research, carrying on the work of Rumford and other pioneers of modern science. By methodical investigation, the frontier of scientific knowledge is being pushed steadily forward.

The General Electric Company, by continuous scientific research, has developed new and better ways of making electricity of use to mankind.

Editorials

PRAISE FOR CLEMSON

The following extract from a letter to The Augusta Chronicle, which was the subject of an editorial in one of our state papers, is written by Mr. N. L. Willet, a Georgia citizen. The gentleman bemoans the fact that in Georgia there are a number of state agricultural stations and units, all of which do not agree on some vital agricultural questions raised by farmers of Georgia. Some of these agricultural stations are jealous of each other, Mr. Willet says, and are often prone to encroach upon each other's territory. He says some things about our own state and Clemson College which make Carolinians feel good:

"On the contrary, over in South Carolina the farmer who has an agricultural problem on his hands, no matter what may be its import, simply addresses his questionnaire to Clemson College and it goes at once to presumably the highest authority in the state on that subject. In return he gets an answer and perhaps a bulletin. This is all true because over in South Carolina all of the official factors or units of agriculture are correlated with and under the guidance and direction of Clemson College. To the South Carolina farmer Clemson, therefore, means authority and to him it is concentration. If you were to ask me why it is that South Carolina has had no lynching in two years and why it is in that state that dynamiting is practically unknown, why it is that she has so many fine demonstration agents and extension agents, both men and women, my reply would be that the cause of it all is Clemson College and its system."

Both Clemson College and the state of South Carolina appreciate favorable publicity like Mr. Willet gives in his letter; and if we had more boosters within our own state, then South Carolina's publicity campaign would be an assured success. Gov. McLeod is also an ardent booster for Clemson College and for Winthrop, our state normal school for women. We must all get behind Governor McLeod and the state press association and make South Carolina the "Mecca" of enterprising business firms and up-to-date agriculturists.—E. H. H.

DR. RIGGS ADVISES GREENVILLE COUNTY PLANTERS

At the September meeting of Agricultural Bureau of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce, which assembled at the schoolhouse of the Oak Grove community, Dr. Riggs spoke to a large gathering of farmers and men interested in agriculture generally. Addresses were made by Rev. W. J. Bolt, pastor of the Simpsonville Baptist church, and Dr. W. M. Riggs, president of Clemson. Dr. Riggs spoke about Clemson and its important relation to the farmer, advising that book-farming is the only successful farming of today. Mr. Bolt spoke of the relationship existing between the city of Greenville and the surrounding rural communities.—D. C. A.

ARE WE GOING TO THE FAIR?

There have been many rumors and speculations going the round in barracks as to the entire corp going to Columbia for the Carolina game and Fair Week. These rumors have even been substantiated by a newspaper report. At the time this paper goes to press, there is no official information on the matter available. However, a little bit of past records are.

The policy of the college is to carry the Corps to Columbia once every four years. This gives every man a chance to go at least once. The last trip of the entire bunch was made when the present Seniors were "Rats." According to this, the next "Tegira" will be made next year. Here's hoping.

Last year all Juniors and Seniors were allowed the privilege of leaving the campus for a sufficient amount of time to enable them to see the Annual Classic. Whether or not this privilege will be extended again is unknown, but it is a sure fact that most all wish it.

Just what will turn up is yet to be seen, but if the impossible happens, and the entire corps is allowed to go, there will sure be a happy bunch of "Tigers" backing the team on the Twenty-Fifth in Columbia.

AN EIGHT-PAGE TIGER

It has always been the policy at Clemson, both of the authorities and of the cadets, to try to make all of the departments of the institution grow together. In other words, what we seek in the making of "a greater Clemson" is an all-round development. And in accordance with this policy, we are, for the first time, publishing a larger weekly. This step comes as a result of talks with the alumni and of greater efforts on the part of the students themselves.

We have felt the need of a larger weekly for several years, and now we have made the plunge. Whether we can continue to carry eight pages for the entire session depends on the amount of co-operation given the staff by alumni, the students, and the officers of the college. We would like to hear from the alumni and get their opinions on this subject. Our printer is giving his cooperation and we appreciate his college spirit. To Professor Henry, Director of Student Affairs, goes much of the credit for a larger paper. Professor Henry has helped the staff in every way in his power.

Advertisements will be an important consideration because we will need about twice as much advertising matter as we had for the four-page paper.

It is our desire to organize a reporters club this year. There are a great many boys among the cadet corps who have talent along literary lines and that is one of the aims of the college publications—to develop that talent.

We invite helpful criticism from our alumni, because we are always interested in them and from the letters we receive we know they are always interested in the college paper.

CROSS COUNTRY MEN BEGIN PRACTICE

Tigers Begin Road Work. Many Men Are Out. Jack Killian Is Captain of Jungaleer Squad This Year.

While football holds sway in Tigertown and followers of the game count the days until the opening battle with Auburn comes off, the Tiger road men are preparing for one of the hardest seasons in Clemson's cross country history. Coach W. D. Reed sounded the call for the Jungaleers to appear in uniform last Monday afternoon. About sixty men turned out for the first practice of the season. Numbered among these men were an unusually large number of freshmen which goes to prove that Clemson will have some strong teams before the present "rats" become alumni.

Coach Reed will have a strong nucleus about which to build his team this season. The Tiger hopes rest upon such runners as: Captain Jack Killian, Ellison, E. C. Sease, Buck, Bauer, R. E. Sease, Hart, Stuckey, Johnson, Steer and others. Many other men will probably come in for a share of the honors at "the end of the long run." The Tigers will open their season with the University of Georgia at Athens. The Southeastern meet in Atlanta will probably be next on the schedule and then the Jungaleers will go to Birmingham for the Birmingham road races. Thanksgiving day will find the Tigers in the Palmetto State meet for a victory there. This is a tough schedule but we are confident that the old Purple and Gold will be waving on top when the shouting dies.—E. D. P.

AN OPEN LETTER TO EVERY FORMER CLEMSON STUDENT

Clemson College has just opened for its 1923-24 session. The enrollment is the largest in the history of the institution. The college has broadened in scope and work within the past few years. This year the graduate school begins its first year, and while there are not a great many students in the graduate courses this session, a beginning has been made which is destined to play an important part in Clemson's future development.

In athletics, the Tigers are plainly on the upward road. The athletics standard of Clemson, so far as games won and lost may be considered, has fallen very low some few years ago. But now the prospects are brighter. We have a coach in whom we have every confidence. A coach whom we feel sure is able to put us back at the top if it is possible for a coach to do that.

The college spirit among the students was never more desirable. The Clemson College Corps of Cadets bows to no student body in the matter of supporting their athletic teams. Regardless of the high grade of school spirit which was at Clemson when you were here, it could not excel that which exists today.

But in order for Clemson to hold that place which she should hold in scholarship and in athletics, she must have the whole-hearted support of the alumni and former students. We believe that any former Clemson man will do everything in his power for the advancement of his Alma Mater. Can we count on you?

The acting secretary, while he cannot devote his entire time to the work of the Association, will be on the campus throughout the entire year. If you wish to obtain any information in regard to the college, the alumni, or athletics, the secretary will be more than glad to furnish you with such information, or he will secure it from those who are in positions to give it.

We have a small percentage of the former students on the roll of active members. A very small percent have paid their dues. No organization can exist without funds, and while the Association is not bankrupt by any means, its work is more or less hampered by the lack of funds. If you have not paid your dues for the year 1923 mail a check for five dollars to the Clemson Alumni Association, Clemson College, S. C.

Yours for a GREATER CLEMSON

TIGERS ARE TO BE WELL COACHED THIS SEASON

That the Tiger football team will be well-coached is a settled fact. Bud Saunders, the newly-elected Director of Athletics, is showing daily that he knows his stuff. His line play, and his plays that he has been putting on stamp him as a competent student of the game. Saunders, in his attitude towards the players and cadets, has gained much popularity. They all like him. He comes to Clemson, fresh from the Missouri Valley Conference, with all the up-to-date ideas on every phase of football. He spent some time during the summer at Knute Rockne's coaching school at Notre Dame. Quite a number of distinguished coaches were present at this school to learn from Rockne and to swap advice. "Bo" McMillian, All-American quarterback of Centre College, who is now coaching at Centenary College, was one of these.

As for the assistant coaches, they are too well known to the cadets and supporters of Clemson to need any introduction. Captain May has come to be a regular fixture to need any introduction. His reputation and ability as a coach are known to be on a par with his unexcelled personality which has endeared him to the hearts of all who know him. Under Doc Stewart last year, Capt. May played a very important part in the shaping of a successful team. Dope Major, the other assistant varsity coach, who reported to Clemson last week, is a Clemson graduate, having played football and base ball here. Dope was a stellar drop-kicker, winning more than one game for Clemson by reason of his rure toe. He is fitting into the condition of things with remarkable alacrity.

Ben Goodale, who is running the freshman team, is a competent football mentor who can be depended upon to develop the new boys. He has a large number of men of average freshmen size who will make great varsity material in the future. The coaching staff is thoroughly sound. We have every confidence in their sincerity and ability. They are all working together harmoniously with the same final purpose in view; that of putting Clemson athletics back at the top where they belong.—E. G. P.

CHEMISTRY
Why It Concerns You

To the Average Man Chemistry appears to be of little concern. He has the idea that chemistry is for the chemist alone, or probably that it may become a side line in the study of certain phases of agriculture and of engineering. Such an idea is entirely erroneous. No subject, perhaps, touches more everyday things than does chemistry. Chemistry is involved in our eating, our breathing, our growth, and our development. A better understanding of what chemistry is will certainly result in more interests being manifested in the subject itself, and in many other things which are influenced by it. Although chemistry is, like the other sciences, a highly specialized subject, its application is so general that it is a necessary adjunct to a general education.

Deming, in his "General Chemistry," makes the following statments concerning chemistry as a part of a general education:

"Modern chemistry, with its far reaching generalizations and hypotheses, is a fine example of how far the human mind can go in exploring the unknown beyond the limits of human senses. Many who are first attracted to the study of chemistry by its reputation for practical utility, in the end have come to prize it most for its intellectual beauty.

"For one who seeks recreation in travel, a little knowledge of chemistry will do much to beguile the way. Enameled beads in the museum at Alexandria, trays of black tea on a hill side in Japan, salt basins along the coast of China—these all speak of chemical processes and have a heightened interest for one who has studied chemistry.

"It is no less true that a little scientific knowledge may influence ones opinions on subjects quite remote from scientific things. The student of chemistry comes to know something about the geographical distribution of the resources of the globe, and finds it easier to understand the economic motives behind the great wars of history, and to perceive what influences have been at work in the making of treaties.

"Thus, for those of us who make only a brief study of chemistry, the benefits to be expected are of an indirect nature. Increased capacity for enjoyment, a livelier interest in the world in which we live, a more intelligent attitude toward the great questions of the day—these are the by-products of a well balanced education, including chemistry in its proper relation to other things.

"Butch" Holahan, the powerful captain of the Jungaleers. Tom Bailes is another veteran tackle who will in all probability see yeoman service for the Tiger eleven. Frank Strother, formerly of Georgia Tech, and Quinn, a husky Irishman, are also tackles of no mean ability.

"Dutch" Tennant and "Red" Wilson, both Block "C" men with two years college experience, are likely to start off as the Clemson guards. "Horse" Mullins, Bob Fortenberry, and "Mammoth" Fleming are rapidly developing candidates for the guard positions.

"Gilly" Dotterer and Bob Griffin are running a heated race for the quarterback place vacated by Rhett Turnipseed. Both have the making of stars. "Gilly" is well known, and Bob is a former substitute who has developed rapidly. Either would make an excellent field general, although Dotterer has the advantage in the matter of 'Varsity experience.

Bratton Williams with his irresistible line bucking is the logical candidate for full back. Pat Harmon, with all his former speed and an increased adeptness at side-stepping, Charlie Robinson with his kicking ability and a greater expertness at running with the ball, and Charlie Burton, a swift back, are the bright lights among the embryo half-backs. "Doc" Melton has also been transferred from end to back and is showing up well. John Walker, the big boy from Blackville who was the sensation of the Freshman team in the Davidson game last year, is a plunging back with worlds of possibilities who may not be a regular this year but will certainly be heard from later.

C.A.C.
THE "Y" AT CLEMSON

For the past several months the "Y" has been comparatively, a quiet place; but, with the opening of the present session, life becomes evident in every nook and corner. Men are taking real interest in what is being done, whether it be for their pleasure or for their fellow men. They enjoy seeing the other man happy; because it puts another unit of force into one's being to see a real smile. As we return we seek ways by which we may come in contact with all types of men; because, after all, we are successful only to the extent to which we are able to live and associate with others. Men are great teachers, and different types of men give us a pleasant variation. At the "Y" we find the common meeting place for all men, and it is there that we learn to know those with whom we associate better and better.

This organization is neither run for financial or selfish purposes, nor for the pleasure of a chosen few, but it is indeed a place for those who desire the uplift of the world. It looks to the development of manhood through the mind, body, and soul, and does everything within its power to raise the standard of human lives. Lives are valuable, and that is the reason that the "Y" does its best to make them a source of good to give forth light to all who are in need of help.

Within the buildings of this organization any person may find some form of amusement, whether he desires that form which stimulates the mind or the body. As we seek amusement we are sure to come face to face with those who know us and those who do not. Some know every phase of our character by our looks, expressions, and actions; and it is at these places of amusement that we can observe and make comparisons in that which is most dear to us all, character. Character is not only the dearest of our possessions, but it leads us towards success. It gives us that individuality which makes one person different from another, and causes a man to be valued according to his use to others.

The Y. M. C. A. makes an effort to befriend every student of Clemson, and its only request is to be given the chance to help those who are in trouble. The building is in charge of very able leaders who are glad for any person to take advantage of any of the many pastimes, whether it be for once or for a multitude of times. They will welcome all those who take an interest in the athletic, religious or social life of the public, and they will also be glad to discuss, with any person, those things which will help Clemson, the greatest college in South Carolina, to become a model institution of learning.

PROMISE YOURSELF

To be so strong that nothing can disturb your peace of mind.
To talk health, happiness and prosperity to every person you meet.
To make all your friends feel that there is something in them.

To look on the sunny side of everything and make your optimism come true.

To be just as enthusiastic about success of others as you are about your own.

To forget the mistakes of the past and press on to the greater achievements of the future.

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and to have a smile ready for every living creature you meet.

To give so much time to the improvement of yourself that you have no time to criticise others.

To be too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear, and too happy to permit the presence of trouble.

To think well of yourself and to proclaim this fact to the world—not in loud words but in great deeds.

To live in the faith that the world is on your side as long as you are true to the best that is in you.—Selected.

TAPS '24 TO BE BEST ANNUAL YET

Taps, the Clemson College annual is edited and published by each years Senior class, with the help and co-operation of the under class men. This book may be likened unto a memory book of the college year in that it contains the pictures and history of all four classes, views of the Campus, the Athletic teams, military, college activities, and satire of the year. The money with, which the annual is published, is not included in the blanket fee, as it is at some Colleges, and must be gotten by subscription and the staff wishes to take this opportunity to thank those who have already signed up for a volume. There is one fee, a fee to help pay for the space taken up by the athletic and military books. This year the fee is being cut one third and will be one dollar per man.

Contracts for the work on our book were let to the following firms Burger Engraving Company, Lewis Studio, and the Index Printing Company.

The staff is going to make some changes from the set form in which the book has been printed for the past few years, and with the help of these changes we hope to assemble a book that will be a pleasant surprise to the student body and will cause every man to prize Taps' 24 more than any other volume he possesses.

Some of the special features to be run in this year's book are: a beauty contest for the beauty section (details of which will be published later), portrait cuts of the football, basketball, and baseball teams, a duotone view section and a snappy book of college satire.

The pictures of Seniors, Juniors and of Clubs will be taken as soon as all of the uniforms come in.

We, the members of '24 staff' are going to do all in our power to make Taps a success, but we need the help and backing of the entire student body. If you have any suggestions to make see one of us.

THE COLUMBIAN HOLDS ITS FIRST MEETING

The Columbian Literary Society opened this session with a very interesting meeting last Friday night. The meeting was called to order by the president Mr. J. C. Aull, after which Mr. T. J. Hart conducted the devotional exercises. The roll was then called and the minutes of the last meeting were read.

As there was no program arranged for the meeting the president, Mr. J. C. Aull made an interesting talk. He asked that every one do his best to co-operate with the officers—for without the aid of each member the society could make no progress and only with the co-operation of each member could the Columbian keep up its rep of being the best society at Clemson.

At the close of his talk Mr. Aull stated that one of the smaller societies had disbanded and that several of the members of that society had asked that they might be taken into the Columbian and given credit for the work they had done in the other society. A motion was carried to take these men into the society.

At this point a canvas was made for new members with the result that eleven new members were added to the roll of the society.

Several short talks were made by different members of the society. Each stated that one of the desires of his heart was to help make the Columbian the best society at Clemson.

The society adjourned with each member present determined to bring a new member next Friday night and make the Columbian the greatest society at Clemson.

Engineering Levels Mountains

The Pack Train has become a relic of the past, along with the Prairie Schooner. Modern methods of transportation have leveled mountains, brought San Francisco nearer to New York, and widened the markets of all our great industries.

And the engineering brains and energy, that have developed transportation to the prominence it holds in the business of the world today, are no longer employed in improving means of overland travel alone. Street Railways, Elevator Systems, Inter-urban Lines and Improved Shipping Lines—these are some of the accomplishments of engineering in the development of better transportation.

Neither have the builders of such systems been concerned only in the actual hauling of people and materials. A study of the methods of handling passengers and freight at the large terminals has developed the Terminal Engineer, who has greatly improved existing methods, and has developed entirely new ones, as well.

Engineering, as it is applied to transportation, has had to concern itself with many kinds of materials and many ways of handling them under all manner of circumstances. For instance the problems surrounding the handling of iron ore, in bulk, are vastly different from those encountered in moving any one of the finished products manufactured from iron ore, that must also be transported in large quantities. But Engineering constantly meets each situation with improved transportation facilities.

Industry, as a whole, and the nations and the people of the world owe much to the engineers, associated with such large manufacturing industries as Westinghouse. They have not only brought about vast improvements, but they have done so at a constantly decreasing cost to those who derive the greatest benefit from them.

When the race is over, and the judges are gone, what will your thoughts be? Will you be one of the many to say, "I would give all for a chance to run again."

Fellows, we are on the threshold of a new year. New opportunities are before us. New fields of conquest are ours to conquer or to lose. Are we going to meet the tests and hardships that rise up before us with a determination to overcome them at any cost, or are we going to be content to sit idly by, and watch the other fellow scale the heights of victory.

The greatest crime in a college man's life is the tendency to "put off" until another day. Many of the finest achievements a college man may gain are lost to him because he says that tomorrow will do, or that tomorrow I will study. What are the consequences? Exams come. He is not prepared. He tries to cram, but because of a lack of knowledge supposed to be gained through out the term, he fails. The next session, the same story is repeated.

Is this year going to be that kind of year for you? Are the judges going to say, that you did not qualify? Start at the beginning. keep up with each day's work, and at the end of the year, you may rest from your labors with the happy thought that you have done your best, and have won the race.

GREENVILLE NEWS TO BACK CLEMSON

Increasing recognition is coming to the Clemson Tigers from the daily press of South Carolina, and the various papers are beginning to wake up to the fact that Clemson is a live source of news for them. The following quotations from a letter to the local correspondent of the "Greenville News" show that this paper is ready to add itself to the list of those who back the Tigers:

"Last season, we understand, there was some misgiving on the part of Clemson men over the state and especially right at the college, who thought the NEWS did not give Clemson the space that she deserves. I am unqualified to say, but I do wish to say now that we consider Clemson one of our immediate sources of good live news. This is greatly magnified in football season. If the NEWS has erred in not giving Clemson what she deserves, heretofore, then let's see that she goes ahead in this respect.
"Let me say that I am pulling for Clemson and that I want the fellows to know that the Greenville NEWS is their paper.
Yours for a great season,
(Signed) Pete Dunford.

THE CHRONICLE

"The Chronicle" for the past few years has not been the magazine that a student body the size of Clemson should publish as a creditable magazine. To make a "better Chronicle", the staff must have the support of the entire student body. The Chronicle is the monthly magazine composed of short stories, essays and poems written by the students. But the students are inclined to let the burden rest entirely upon the staff and this can only result in a magazine that is not a credit to the student body.

It is the policy of the Chronicle staff this year to edit a "better Chronicle," but this policy will fall flat unless each student takes it upon himself to support the magazine by literary contributions. So let every student that has the least idea that he can write something, get busy and turn in a short story, essay or poem to any member of the staff by the first of October.

NEW MANAGEMENT FOR TIGER PRESSING CLUB

The Tiger Pressing Club, which has always been run by a "Block C" man, is in the hands of "Jack" Chandler this year. "Jack" is one of the best athletes we have, having made his letter in both basketball and track. This lad as a good business man and is depending largely on his own efforts to send himself to Clemson. We need him a good athlete to leave Clemson, so let's all give the "Tiger" pressing club our work. Jack has an expert presser and cleaner in charge and guarantees to give the best service.

THE PAINTERS of beautiful landscapes and gorgeous scenes still attract the attention of multitudes with their art, and the musicians who coax sweet harmonies from various instruments still hold great audiences spellbound with their melodies, but as for us—no more welcome scene could be painted than the vision of seventy of eighty purple clad warriors as they trot about on the green carpet of Riggs field; and no music that we have yet heard can quite compare with that dull thud which is heard when the toe is driven into the tightly-pumped pigskin.

FOR NINE MONTHS we have patiently waited to see just such a sight, and it was with more joy than we know how to express that we saw the first workout some days ago. Less than two weeks remain before the shrill blast of the referee's whistle will summon that purple clad group of heroes to battle with a worthy foe. Only eight more days of concentrated determined effort to give the best that they have. Barely more than a full week of smoothing off the rough edges; and the first battle of the season will be on.

***

THE CROWD will be here with all the glamor and color which mark an important contest. The small pasteboard which admit one to the game are rapidly going out of Prof. Henry's office. An estimate of five thousand attendance would not be too optimistic. In fact it is our personal opinion that the crowd will pass that figure.

***

THE SQUAD is working hard. Every man is striving to give his very best. They must be in shape for sixty minutes of real football on the 29th. Scrimmage has been in order during last week and will continue through this week. Saturday for the first time, the varsity teams lined up against the freshmen. This kind of scrimmage shows the coaches the rough edges that must be taken off before the first game.

***

SEVERAL STARS have been unearthed already in these scrimmages. For instance, the daily fracas have definitely proven that Pat Harmon is going to be about the best halfback in this neck of the woods. Pat has truly been side-stepping and shifting his way through the opposition. If he fails to make the All-State eleven this year, he will have to break a leg or something.

CAPTAIN HOLOHAN is playing a tackle now, and he is looking good at that post. In Saturday's scrimmage he dived under the line and over it to make some outstanding tackles. Bratton Williams drew some complimentary exclamations from the galleries which followed the practice by his piledriving tactics. This young Greenville lad is a perfect combination of arsenic and T. N. T. right out of a sixteen-inch gun. The way he drove those lines in scrimmage looks like he has already cinched the fullback berth on the varsity.

CHARLIE ROBINSON, of drop-kick fame, is booting the pigskin all over the lot out there. Charlie's trusty toe is destined to figure prominently in more than one Clemson game this year. Gilly Dotterer and Bob Griffin are having a nice little contest of their own at the quarterback position. There are those who believe that Bob will divide the honors with Gilly, somewhat after the fashion of the Turnipseed-Dotterer combination last season.

STONEWALL JACKSON, old dependable, sturdy Stonewall, is playing around that guard position like an All American. If ever a man was fitted for a football player by nature and instinct, Jackson is that man. Stalwart and reliable, Stonewall will be a tower of strength in the Tiger line.

***

STROTHER AND TENNANT at tackle and guard respectively, are showing worlds of stuff. Like every other man on the squad, they haven't cinched any place yet. All of them are getting plenty of opposition, which is a very valuable asset to a football squad. Wertz, at center, has improved over last year so that there is hardly a comparison in his work then and now. He, too, is getting some stiff opposition.

***

FINKLEA AND GARRISON at ends on the first strong team, look good from here. Finklea shows uncanny ability at grabbing forward passes besides being a highly desirable man on defense. He and Garrison both are built for ends, being long, and rangy. In addition, they have the next best quality, that of speed.

***

MANY OTHERS have shown good stuff, and the above summary is by no means guaranteed to hold good as the varsity team for the Auburn game. In the line, there are Red Wilson, Pinky Colbert, Horse Mullins, Bob Fortenberry, Bowles, Leitzey, Palmer, and many others who might step into a varsity berth at a moments' notice. Other backfield men who are looking good are Charlie Burton, Doc Melton, Walker, Pope, and numerous others.

***

***

JACK REAMES is another Clemson man of last year's team who is stepping into the ranks of coaches. Jack is to teach Chemistry and coach in the York High School. His former Chemistry prof. assures us that he will make an excellent professor, while we know ourself that he cannot but succeed as a coach.

***

GRADY WADE, another famous ex-Clemson star, is coaching and teaching Science in the school of Fulton, Kentucky. Grady was a visitor on the campus a few days before school opened, being then on his way to his new position.

Clemson College, S. C.,
Sept. 19th 1923
Prof. Truman Johnson Reames,
School of Chemistry,
York High Schools,
York, S. C.

Dear Jack,

Well, Jack, it looks like you have gone and done it. After all the experience you have had with various and sundry profs. you have to go and have yourself labeled one. Well, I suppose it is fortunate that you got into the Chemistry Dept. as Dr. Pollard tells me that you was one of his most stellar pupils.

Well, Truman, I hope that you will have a great football team. If my memory serves me right, York was a rather strong factor last year and you ought to get away pretty well. You and Grady Wade, and Rhett Turnipseed, and Woodie ought to get together and arrange a series of games between your respective teams to see which is the best coach Woodie has written me for advice as to what to do about his team, knowing that I am next to the most ignorant person on football in the world, the first being O. B. Keeler. Well, Jack, I told him to get up and recite them his little story about her soft, white hands, just before every game and I knew they would make a cleanup.

Well, Jack, we are reapidly getting our local boys in shape to play vs the football from Alabama Polytechnic Institute, commonly known to the laity as Auburn. I understand that the team from Alabama is going to be a tough one, but I think our boys are going to be able to show them a thing or two. They have been getting real rough in practice, Dutch Tennant have forever ruined his schoolgirl complexion by too much exposure to the sun. Butch Holohan was the first casualty to report. Butch breezed in with a broken finger the first thing. He says that it happened while he was trying to crank a Oakland. You can judge for yourself, but I doubt it and any man that would crank a Oakland has already got a cog loose somewhere.

Well, Jack, the Board of strategy is holding its regular meetings in Sloan's and we miss your smiling face at these gatherings. One of the members backed me down the other day and made me win two bits on the Dempsey-Firpo fight. I hated like the dickens to bet my whole bank account but they drove me to it.

Well, Jack, I hope you will have all sorts of good luck with your football team and give my sympathy to your chem class as I know you will be a cleanup of a prof.

Yours without a struggle, E. G. P.

SEVERAL CHANGES MADE IN FACULTY THIS SESSION

L. C. Packenham, Ph. D., of London University, the head of the division of economics and sociology comes to Clemson from Penn State College where he taught for two years. He was trained in Harrow school, Royal Military College, Sannhurst, Magdalen College, Oxford, and took his Ph. D. at the University of London. He was a lieutenant in Coldstream Guards, going through four years in the World War—being wounded four times and receiving many medals for bravery.

L. G. Moffatt is instructor in English in place of M. E. Oakes. Mr. Moffatt is a graduate of Erskine College, he taught for a year in McKenzie College, Brazil, and at the University of South Carolina.

R. Brice Harris is the new instructor in English and Mathematics. Mr. Harris has had experience in banking and has taught in the city schools in Charleston.

Dr. A. G. Ferguson is in charge of the English work with the Federal Board students. He has had more than twenty years of experience in teaching.

J. A. Benden, is the assistant professor of chemistry, and is a graduate of the University of North Carolina.

B. D. Roderick, assistant chemist, is a native of Wales, educated at Cambridge, and has had experience in commercial chemistry and in instruction work in the gas service during the World War.

Mr. Dewey French, a native of South Dakota, and a graduate of the Agricultural college of that state, holds a newly created position as a teaching fellow.

Mr. Lewis H. Doane is in charge of the road construction department and will also do some teaching in civil engineering.

Mr. R. G. Allen, a graduate of Clemson in the class of 1920, who has had further training at Cornell and in the government architectural service, takes the place of D. C. Lange, resigned. —D. C. A.

CLEMSON SPIRIT IS REJUVENATED FOR FOOTBALL SEASON

True Spirit Of Clemson Again Ripe

The writer has often sung with great pleasure, that old song entitled, "I Have Got The World in a Jug—The Stopper is in My Hand." On the night of September tenth, the said writer had the pleasure of seeing the old Clemson jug of spirits thoroughly opened and the stopper was properly discarded. The forthcoming section of spirits was enough to make the heart of every son of Clemson swell with pride.

The jug to which I refer was the corps of cadets assembled in chapel for the purpose of loosening up its respective lungs as a preliminary to our first gridiron encounter. The aforesaid organs of respiration were thoroughly loosened up, and the demonstration of voiceforous capacity was a howling success for tigerism.

In addition to the wind jamming program, elections were held for the purpose of filling certain athletic offices which had been vacated, due to various reasons.

The results of the elections stand as follows: Baseball manager, W. W. (Buck) Spearman; Senior Cheer Leader, C. C. (Cap) Garrett; Junior Cheer Leaders, F. A. Evans and T. H. Clark; Athletic historian, M. B. Oliver; Assistant football manager, J. M. Longley; Sub-assistant football managers Farmer and De Loach.

After the transaction of the above business, coach "Bud" Saunders made a short, but inspiring and snappy talk to the assembly. The chief substance of coach Saunders' talks was clean sportsmanship.

Listen fellows. On September twenty-ninth two tiger teams will clash on Riggs field. Auburn has the reputation of having the most loyal student body in the South. For several years Auburn has been beaten by Georgia Tech.

For just as many years that Auburn team has been carried on the shoulders of the Auburn student body from the station to the school.

It is an awe-inspiring sight to see that bunch of huskies crying like babies over a recent game while the student body swarms around them yelling as if their team had beat Tech by a thousand points. Not only is this true after the Tech-

Auburn game each year, but after every game that the huskie Auburnites engage in.

Men of Clemson, a spirit like that would follow a team to Zu Zu and back. That same spirit will be present but unheard, here on the twenty-ninth.

Clemson has got to back her team with a similar spirit.

What say you gang? Are the Plainsmen to be backed by a better spirit than we Mountain Tigers can put behind our gang?

Think it over and start that spirit to boiling. J. M. L.

SENIOR CLASS HAS FIRST MEETING

The senior class held its first meeting of the year on September 8, in the college chapel. The class now numbers about 130 men and practically every man was present. A number of business matters were under discussion and the "august body" took care of most of these.

The meeting was opened by the class president, Mr. Hall. The election of men for vice-president, secretary-treasurer, and historian was first disposed of, and the following men were chosen for the respective positions.

Vic. Pres. .... C. C. Garrison

Sec. Treas. .... J. H. Alexander

Historian .... G. C. Wofford

These men are all prominent members of the class and are all very popular with their fellows. They know the responsibility that rests upon them and are fully competent to be the leaders of the class of '24.

The ancient rivalry between the "Ags" and "Engineers" was not so pronounced as it has been in times gone by but when all the smoke has cleared away we see that the president, the vice-pres. and the historian are "Ags." While the sec. treas. is a loyal disciple of "Will Rogers" and a follower of the trans. It was decided not to elect a chaplain this year as the class is already a consecrated bunch.

All the members of the senior class are officers this year and the question was raised as to whether the class as a whole should wear "Sam Browne" belts. It was put to a vote and carried to an affirmative victory by the princely second lieutenants.

The class has not yet been granted officers privileges, pending the time when the seniors shall accept their responsibilities as the keepers of law and order in the barracks and in the mess hall. A motion was made and seconded that every senior do everything in his power to earn senior privileges for himself and for his class. This motion was put to a vote and carried unanimously. The present senior class has, the authorities say, been a good class from almost every point of view, and it has stated its willingness to co-operate with the college authorities for a better and bigger Clemson.

Jug Head Griffin went to the cave To see sights unknown,

But when he went to leave the place,

He pulled an awful bone.

He "My, but that is a beautiful arm you have."

She "Yes, I got that playing basket ball."

He "Do you ever play football?"

She: Lets' go to some place where winter, summer and the entire year is nice and warm. Then we'll never come back.

He: Aw, go to hell.—Banter.
